Description

The purpose of the Southern Hills Alcohol and Drug Information and Referral Center (SHAD) DBA Soaring Eagle Treatment Center is to provide information on alcohol and drugs; education to prevent alcoholism and other drug abuse; outpatient treatment for those addicted or dependent on alcohol and other drugs and other court referred persons; follow-up and aftercare for all categories of service and clients.

The Center was incorporated in accordance with the laws of the State of South Dakota on June 10, 1974 and began operation on November 1, 1974, by a local unpaid board of directors to provide counseling and referral services to those affected by alcohol and other drug dependencies and to prevent chemical dependency. Procedures have been established to provide programs over the wide field with activities specific to each part of the problems encountered.

On July 16, 2001, SHAD opened Soaring Eagle Treatment Center (SET) which provides services for chemically dependent adolescents. Agency Director Doug Austin oversees both facilities. However, each facility is run by its own staff to ensure the best possible service for both locations.
